Commodore's Report

Faith Rodell, Commodore

As the weather cools off and our active sailing season slows down a bit we can look back on another fun year of sailing in the Sailing Club of Washington and a year with lots of accomplishments as a Club.

Best, of which, is we have added a new cruiser to our fleet, a 25 ft Capri, "Skirmish" (see picture on the next page), purchased from former SCOW members Nelson Pacheco and his wife Betty who gave us a great deal on a well maintained boat. Thanks to Chris McGraw who organized bringing Skirmish up from Lewisetta, Va on the lower Potomac. The final 2 legs of this trip will be completed this week.

The Board and the Boat Asset committee are still looking for a replacement cruiser for Topaz so that we will have three great cruisers! Hopefully we can find just the right boat and sell Topaz before the start of the new season.

The Board and the Training and Certification Committee task force also spent a lot hours wrestling with the Boat Use Policy and have made great progress in eliminating Small Craft Advisories as the limiting criteria for boat use. Check the webpage and read the new policy based on forecasted wind speeds rather than SCA's. This will certainly increase our sailing and training opportunities.

Sarah Jones has done a great job dealing with Topaz' problems, engine thefts, and keeping our fleet in good operating order this year. Thanks to all the members who turned out for the fall Maintenance day October 15th.

The Racing season was the best ever – lots of wins – and thanks to Kyoko for a great season. The proudest that we can be is that we helped raise over $181,000 during the Leukemia Cup Regatta placing this Regatta 5th in the nation in fund raising. Chris McGraw and his Team Tartan took 2nd place in fund raising with $9300 taken in.

River/Bay Director, Richard Cecilio, organized Themed Raft-ups and everyone is still singing those Jimmy Buffet tunes.

Social Sails were well attended this year and well organized by our new monthly Social Sail Coordinators: Jim Klein, Cathy Zeigler, Eileen Dougherty, Terry Nachazel, and Barbara Thacker. We were missing a Social Director, most of the year, but the coordinators kept everything running smoothly. Jeanne Guerin volunteered to finish out the year as Social Director. Thank you, Jeanne. Many new members joined after first coming to a social sail. Thanks to all the skippers who made sure these guests had a good time and turned them on to sailing. This is what it is all about.

Mark Hogan, Ron Sheldon and Richard Chan of our Investment Committee have been the driving force moving forward with forming an Investment Policy to better manage the Club funds.

Deadline is approaching for getting your reservations in for Hail and Farewell. A delightful evening of dancing, awards presentation and an Asian Fusion feast is planned at the Capital Yacht Club. Given the state of the economy this year we have lowered the price to $40 to make it more affordable. Space is limited get your reservations in by November 4th.

Leukemia Cup Regatta with Team Tartan aboard Rebecca

Chris McGraw

What a regatta!

Thanks to over 80 individual donors to our team, we raised a record $9,300 to defeat blood cancer and earned the second highest fundraising boat total in the whole 100-boat Regatta!! So, beating our goal, as promised, we took to the race course sporting tartans and kilts!

Tropical storm Lee ripped through Washington just before the start, its flood waters throwing down enormous currents and tree trunks for us to dodge, as well as all the plastic bottles from West Virginia, and all the tennis balls that have ever been lost in the DC metro area. Gusts of wind barred white caps and pushed the occasional sailboat on its ear, their sails dipping low to the muddy Potomac flood.

In the first of two races our smart crew in kilts and other tartan-wear port tacked over to the Maryland side of the river seeking shallow waters in order to elude the current. It seemed like a great plan as our boat accelerated into full speed and began pulling away from competitors, but just as we settled in to our groove, three sickening thuds sounded in short succession. Each shook the hull causing the crew to jolt like officers on the bridge of the starship Enterprise (those of us wearing red shirts were particularly fearful.). As the last thud rang out, our rudder came completely free from the stern. We had lost our steering.

The thuds had been sounded by submerged wooden pilings hidden under the 8 feet of water. In an earlier life they had constituted a a civil war era dock. Now, they were our downfall.

We loosed the sheets and flopped our sails as brothers Gary and Chris struggled in our kilts to lean over the stern of the vessel and man-handle a 150 pound rudder back into elusive gudgeons to re-attach it to our boat (I'm sure the rest of the crew was traumatized). Four hours later (or so it seemed) we were back in the race and heading around the marks. With our rudder replaced, we made up time and managed to cross the line in 7th place ahead of some strong competitors.

In the second race everything went perfectly and we took the bullet -- first place! Combined it gave us a 3rd place in the race for the day. Not bad work.

We certainly did our best to win the afterparty that took place shortly thereafter. What a great regatta! Thanks for being wonderful supporters!

Is This Your Cleat?

Ever wonder how to properly and safely tie a cleat hitch? Here's a good article on it.

Fair winds,
